XM Radio is an example of an American success story. Let's not let special interests groups like the NAB ruin XM radio. The attempt by the NAB to block XM radio from broadcasting local programming to its subscribers is not in the best interest of the free market. There is a reason I'm paying a monthly fee to get XM radio in my vehicle. XM radio provides the content that I want to listen too in my vehicle. If the NAB can not provide the content that listeners want, then they can go out of business. It is not up to the FCC to protect outdated business models. Let XM radio broadcast what ever content they choose.
